

Argumentative Essay on Social Media

Walking into a college lecture and asking the students who use social media daily, 90% of those college students will raise their hands. Social media plays a big role in everyday lives. Social media sites have changed the way people interact with each other. Sites like Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Vine, and more, make it simple to stay connected in people's lives making it easier to catch up with friends and family. However, social media also has a huge effect on the variation of the English language. In the article "Social Media: It's Changing Our Language", John Sutherland, who is an English literature professor from University College London, states: "The English language is evolving at a faster rate now than at any other time in history because of social media and instant messaging." This is because people keep creating new words and a new definition for the words. Based on all the changes in language that social media has created, leads to a big question: Is social media ruining the English language? It is important to know because to some people, changes in language on social media are a step backwards which inhibit kids to learn correct grammar and proper language. Some people also believe that social media will affect their communication skills, as well as their writing skills in a way that nobody will notice since everybody is just going to accept the changes in language on social media.

In the article "How social media is changing our language usage", the author Pascale noted that "According to the Nielsen Company, Americans spend approximately 8.18 hours a day on social networking sites". The statistic alone is reason to believe that social media must be
